

14:30 Trajectories of Medicine in the Contemporary Middle East

How do researchers who study the contemporary period write about disease and medicine in the present?

Christopher Dole (Amherst College)

Experiments in Scale: Overcoming the Limits of Psychiatry in Post-Disaster Turkey

Ana Vinea (University of Michigan)

On Culture, Suitability, and Reform: Egyptian Psychiatry in Times of Political Transformation

Asli Zengin (Brown University)

Science of Sexual/Gender Transgression in Turkey: A Transnational Approach

Sherine Hamdy (University of California, Irvine) & Soha Bayoumi (Harvard University)
Nationalist Discourse and Medical Practice in Post-Revolutionary Egypt

Commentator: Bhri Gupta Sing (Brown University / Fellow of the Wissenschaftskolleg zu Berlin 2018/19)

17:00 Syntheses and Conclusions

Venue:

Harnack-Haus
Tagungsstätte der Max-Planck-Gesellschaft
Ihnestr. 16-20
14195 Berlin

Contact:

EUROPE IN THE MIDDLE EAST — THE MIDDLE EAST IN EUROPE (EUME)
Forum Transregionale Studien e.V.
Wallotstr. 14
14193 Berlin
eume@trafo-berlin.de eume-berlin.de

Please register for the panels (by 1 March 2019):

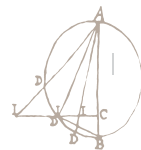

event_dept3@mpiwg-berlin.mpg.de

No registration for the keynote lecture required!

More information:

eume-berlin.de
forum-transregionale-studien.de trafo.hypotheses.org

A cooperation of:

MAX PLANCK INSTITUTE
FOR THE HISTORY OF SCIENCE

EUME

Forum
Transregionale
Studien

Photo: Medical School in 19th-Century Ottoman Empire

Workshop

Power in Medicine: Interrogating the Place of Medical Knowledge in the Modern Middle East

11-12 April 2019

Venue:

Harnack-Haus
Tagungsstätte der Max-Planck-Gesellschaft

Convenors:

Edna Bonhomme, Shehab Ismail (both Max Planck Institute for the History of Science), Lamia Moghnieh (EUME Fellow 2017/18 & 2019-20)

Thursday, 11 April 2019

10:00 Introductory remarks

Edna Bonhomme, Shehab Ismail (both Max Planck Institute for the History of Science), Lamia Moghnieh (EUME Fellow 2017/18 & 2019-20)

10:30 Circulation, Borders & Interruptions

Movement is integral to many of these, diseases, people, and concepts. What are the dynamics that cause people/ diseases/medical technologies to move and cause interruption?

Chris Wilson (University of Cambridge)
Border-Crossing Patients in the History of Psychiatry in British Mandate Palestine

Michael Christopher Low (Iowa State University)
Microbial Mecca and the Global Crisis of Cholera

Sherene Seikaly (University of California, Santa Barbara)
Bones and Molars: An Arab in Baltimore

Edna Bonhomme (Max Planck Institute for the History of Science)
Settlers First: Infections, Medicine, and Labor in Colonial Libya

Commentator: Lisa Hellman (Freie Universität Berlin)

12:30 Lunch Break

13:30 Competition, Laboratories, and the Contested Geographies of Medicine

How does knowledge get contested and politicized? What gets transferred in the process and what does not?

Omar Dewachi (Rutgers University)
Science Patronage and the Making of Mandatory Medicine in Iraq

Elise Burton (Newnham College)
The Viral Coup: The Iranian Pasteur Institute and Medical Research after Mosaddegh

Seçil Yılmaz (Franklin & Marshall College)
During Pasha's Laboratory: Syphilis and Empire in the Late Ottoman Countryside

Lamia Moghnieh (EUME Fellow 2017/18 & 2019-20)
The Lebanon Hospital for Mental and Nervous Disorders: Psychiatry, Subject and Society in Lebanon

Commentator: Hansjörg Dilger (Freie Universität Berlin)

15:30 Coffee Break

16:00 Keynote Lecture Psychoanalysis and the Imaginary: Translating Freud in Postcolonial Egypt

Omnia El Shakry (University of California, Davis)

Friday, 12 April 2019

9:00 Managing Bodies

How do people and states govern bodies through moral and legal measures? What happens when bodies are managed through medical discourse?

Hannah Louise Clark (University of Glasgow)
Algeria's Other Arab Doctors: Jewish Lives and Livelihoods in Algeria under French Colonial Algeria

Nefertiti Takla (Manhattan College)
Political Economy and the Medicalization of Illicit Substances in Egypt, 1914-1939

Gülhan Balsoy Erkaya & Cihangir Gündoğdu (both Istanbul Bilgi University)
Medicalizing Death in the Late Ottoman World

Commentator: Nora Parr (School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London)

11:00 Coffee Break

11:30 Framing Objects of Knowledge

How do objects get framed by medical practitioners? How do experts and professionals make novel terms, organs that shame disease, therapeutics, or death?

Chris Gratien (University of Virginia)
Tropics of the Taurus: German Medicine and Malaria in the Ottoman Empire during WWI

Shehab Ismail (Max Planck Institute for the History of Science)
German and Egyptian Sexologists and the Boundaries of the Sexual Instinct: Early Twentieth-Century Encounters

Jennifer Derr (University of California, Santa Cruz)
The Liver in Egypt

Commentator: Omnia El Shakry (University of California, Davis)

13:30 Lunch Break